Nebraska Arborist Association Arborist of the Year Wyatt DeWeese

Hughes Tree Service is proud to announce that our own plant health care manager Wyatt DeWeese is the Nebraska Arborist of the Year. Wyatt is from Plano Texas, and was hired by Hughes Tree

Service in 1998. Wyatt began as a groundsman, but soon was working up in the trees. That's when Wyatt realized he wasn't fond of heights, and he moved to the Plant Health Care department. In 2006 he became a certified arborist. Wyatt has been with Hughes Tree Service for 20 years, and is our Plant Health Care Production Manager. His area's of responsibility include plant health care, landscaping, snow removal, and stump removal. When Wyatt is off work he enjoys spending time with his wife and two children, coaching youth soccer, and taking his 1964 Chevelle to car shows. "I never imagined I would be working as an arborist," Wyatt said, "I love what I do and the people I'm surrounded by at work and in the tree industry."

TCIA's Certified Treecare Safety Professional (CTSP) Program

Hughes Tree Service has three TCIA Certified Treecare Safety Professionals on staff. This is the only safety credentialing program in the industry and is designed to address several of the safety challenges that tree care companies face. Our CTSPs act as a safety "coach," working to develop and nurture a culture of safety. The program provides our CTSPs with a well-rounded education in safety concepts, plus the tools to effectively communicate these concepts to our entire staff.

The CTSP course enhances skills in four key areas:

- Leadership
- Hazard control & prevention
- Incident control & prevention
- Adult learning

Remote Controlled Tree Removal

FASTER | SAFER

This is our new truck with an articulated-and-telescoping boom crane, a 360-degree, continuous-rotation grapple saw with radio remote controls. Our trained crew can use it to grab, cut, and safely lower a branch up to 14" in diameter. This makes tree removal both a faster and safer process.

Japanese Beetle Alert

Japanese Beetles are a copper and green colored insect that is 15mm long and 10mm wide. They damage plants by skeletonizing the leaf, by consuming only the leaf material between the veins. This causes an early leaf drop. Japanese beetles can be found on over 200 species of plants including Birch, Linden and Cherry trees.

Call 402-558-8198 to schedule your treatment today before these bugs attack.
